The speaker recognized Representative T. King who introduced Steven Peyton, senior pastor, First United Methodist Church, Uvalde, who offered the invocation as follows:

Dear wonderful Creator, we give you thanks for so many things. We give you thanks for the wonderful season of spring. This is the season of rejuvenation, refreshing life, new life, and new growth.

I thank you, O God, for those who have answered the call, the call to serve and represent our communities. Thank you for your spirit that continues to pour on them. Let them have peace of mind and calmness of heart as they make decisions today.

We are also thankful for this wonderful, beautiful, and great State of Texas. It is the place where people can live free to worship without intervention, to prosper without oppression, and to live a happy life. We remember those military families in our midst whose family members are serving in military service. We pray for those recovering from injuries, thoughtful for those who already have served, and indebted to those who have paid the ultimate sacrifice. We also recognize the first responders in all of our communities that keep us safe 24/7.

We praise you, O God, for the diversity of your creation and ask for your guidance as we all strive to live our lives to better our world, to seek justice, to live with an attitude of mercy, and to share grace with others, as you have provided grace for all of us. In the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, we pray. Amen.

The speaker recognized Representative Hunter who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.

(Kacal in the chair)

CAPITOL PHYSICIAN

ADDRESS BY REPRESENTATIVE S. THOMPSON ON A MATTER OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The speaker recognized Representative S. Thompson who addressed the house on a matter of personal privilege, speaking as follows:

One of the things that I have been privileged to do is to be a member of this body for a very long time, and I'm grateful to the people that I represent who have held confidence in me to give me the privilege to serve with some of the greatest people on earth. That includes you, Sticky. Tinderholt, it includes you; Rinaldi; and Schaefer. Mr. Biedermann, I haven't had a chance to work with you long enough, but I do think that you're an addition to the body.

I don't get bent out of shape when people oppose my legislation. You know, there are people who come to committees and testify against my bills all the time, but I don't get angry. Many times, I learn something from them. Sometimes, I withdraw my legislation, because they have convinced me that the legislation I carry is not good. But they are people just like you that I care about. I care about those who are defenseless, voiceless, and cannot help themselves. You may recall, last session of the legislature, we had a bill on this floor that dealt with special needs children. Those are the children, some of them who go to public school, who many times are injured but cannot speak and articulate what happened to them. We wanted to put cameras in the classroom. We had some disagreements. The bill was killed and given the Lazarus life, and it came back, and we passed it. I care about those kids, because they cannot tell you what happened to them.

I worked many sessions on human trafficking. It took us a long time to convince people that it is a problem within our state. These are the persons—not always foreigners, because 83 percent of them are domestic—they are in our neighborhoods. They are in our communities. They're all over the state, and people prey on them. Sometimes these kids get angry, and they leave home, and they get under the auspices of a pimp, and they are pimped. Many of you are parents just like I am. When your child disappears and you don't hear from them, don't tell me you don't worry about that. You do. Don't tell me you're not concerned about a person who is pimping them and beating them up and giving them an amount of money that they must go out and prostitute themselves to bring in nightly or else they get on them and brutalize them. Don't tell me you were not worried about that. I know you are, because we have passed too many bills in this legislature.

The bill that got knocked today requires beauticians to get some training. We have persons all over this state—doctors, nurses, teachers, truck drivers, almost every profession you can think about—trying to learn and be educated on the signs of human trafficking so that we can save these persons and take them out of the clutches of the pimp. And when those five persons bumped this bill today, I had to go back, Representative Sanford, and think about Proverbs 31:8, speak up for the voiceless. That's our obligation. This bill gives these beauticians information on how to spot it. Every woman in here who goes to the beauty shop talks to their beautician, and you talk about things that are personal. They are the best psychologists I know, and you tell them things. And maybe that person who's a victim cannot call that 800 number that would be in that beauty shop, but she can relate to that beautician. Or there may be signs in that person that the beautician picks up that this person is a victim of human trafficking. So when they leave, they can call and say, this person was there in my beauty shop, and they left in such and such a car, and this person brings her every week or every two weeks to my beauty shop, and be assistance to the police department.

Now, I'm going to tell you something. I cursed out several members that were on that list. I used some bad words, too. I apologize for the bad words if any of y'all heard. I don't apologize to them. But they did come and say that they would fix the bill, because they feel that it was a mandate. But there are some things that you've got to mandate. Wouldn't you want somebody to rescue your child? Wouldn't you want it? I want it. And how many of you in here want to help the pimp? Mr. Shaheen, nobody in this body should ever want to help a pimp traffic a kid or a woman in this state. Nobody should. And that's why we have passed the many pieces of legislation and lead the country in laws and things to regulate and to punish people when we find this thing out. I don't want to be a person who helps the pimp. I want to help the victim. They promised that they were going to fix this bill, but let me tell you something. Our law enforcement puts their lives on the line when they go in and bust up these rings and these massage parlor and things and release women and sometimes men out of the clutches of pimps. I don't want to make it easy for them. I want to make it hard for them. I want to catch them.

And I want to say something else. I'm a Christian, and I'm here on a mission to do the will of God. And it does not mean protecting the pimp. It means that I'm going to protect and do everything possible for the victim and the voiceless and those who need help. I thank you, my colleagues, for wanting to make the changes. I understand now what you're position is, but you didn't talk to me before, and that's why you got that cuss out awhile ago. But you know I love you, and I hope that a situation like this doesn't happen again. For those of you who are childless, if you had a child, you wouldn't want this to happen to that child. At the end of the day, when we are able to rescue these victims, they bring with them a big price tag for society who have been robbed of their skills, individuality, and the contribution they make. We have to pick up the pieces and pay for psychiatric care and housing and treatments for them, and the pimp has gotten away scot-free with money rattling in his pocket. And I know that nobody, not even those who were on that bump-off list, want to make that happen. So Mr. Speaker, members, thank you.
